Per Cent, More than Last Year. All the local levies are now fixed and the people may know just what taxes they will have to pay. The city levy was last night fixed at 60 cents on the $100, and the County Commissioners yesterday fixed the county levy at a total of 33 cents. Upon an assessment that has been increased from $58,-000,000 to $23,000,000, the people of Indianapolis will have to pay $1.55 on the hundred, as against $1.90 last year. With an increase of 60 per cent. in the assessment, there is a reduction of about 1815 per cent in the total levies. This $1.55 is distributed for

Total levy $1.90 This is upon an assessment of property raised by the Democratic tax law from $58,205,890 to $93,701,290. The levies are made by the State Legislature (Demo-eratic), School Board (non-partisan), City (Democratic) and County Commissioners (Democratic). The levy of $1.55 upon the increased valuation takes from the people of Indianapolis this year $1,452,-369,9942. The levy of $1.90 on the old valuation took from them $1,105,911.91. per cent. in the taxes the must pay. That is, they must walk up to the treasurer's office and pay just about one-third more taxes this year than last. If they paid $3 last year it will catch them for $4 this year; if they paid $30 last year, they must make it $40 this year. This is the average; some will be caught for less, but enough others will be caught for more to make up this aver-

APPROPRIATIONS AND TAXES.

Council Passes the Rassmann Ordinance-Levy Fixed at Sixty Cents.

The City Council met last evening in especial session for the purpose of passing the appropriation ordinance. It looked for a time as if the thirteen members necessary to a quorum would not materialize, but the required number at last came in and Col. Bill Hicklin mounted the tribune and rapped the body to order.

The ordinance appropriating money for defraying the current expenses of the city of Indianapolis for the fiscal year ending Aug. 31, 1892, including claims outstanding and which become due during that period, was taken up on its second reading. The ordinance was read a second time, engrossed, read a third time and placed upon its passage. The vote was as follows: Yeas-Messrs. Austin, Cooper, Coy, Gauss, Hicklin, Markey, Murphy, McGill, Nolan, Pearson, Rassmann, Weber-12. Nays-Messrs. Dunn, Gaspar, Martindale, Trus-

Mr. Martindale, in explaining his vote, said: "I shall not vote for this or for any a other appropriation ordinance until the controller shall allow any councilman or citizen to investigate the accounts in his office. I have no way of knowing whether these estimates are right or wrong. The controller refuses to allow me to see his books, saying that I wish to do so for pohtical purposes-to give the information to the Indianapolis Journal. He has no right to question my motive at all. The books should be opened. I do not know whether this ordinance is legal. I have been informed on very good legal authority that it is not. I shall vote no." Mr. Trusler, in explanation, said: " shall vote no on the ordinance because it is clearly not in accordance with the city charter, which says appropriations shall be made for a specific purpose. Here the appropriations are not specific."

Discovery was then made that the or-dinance had not passed, having received only twelve votes, thirteen being neceswoollen." remarked Mr. Trusler. "on account of his well-known delicacy, should not be required to vote." Thereupon Mr. Woollen rose and remarked with some feeling that he did feel a delicacy in vot-ing upon a measure he himself had recom-mended, but as he "didn't want the wheels of government to atop be could vote year The required thirteen votes being secured, the wheels of government gave a groan and

Mr. Gasper's ordinance licensing, taxing and regulating branch stores or establish-ments of other stores established in the city for temporary business, was taken up and passed. This raises the license tax for the business fakes known as "bankrupt stocks," etc., from $300 to $600 a week, and does not allow them to remain less than one nor more than four weeks.

The tax-levy ordinance was then taken upand placed open its passage. Mr. Martindsle and Mr. Trusler voted no. "In explana-tion of my vote," said Mr. Martindale, "I desire to say that it seems to me that 60 cents on the present valuation of property is a rate of taxation unnecessarily high."
At this there arose a chorus of derisive

laughter from the Democratic side of the house. "I notice," continued Mr. Martin-dale, "some gentlemen over there are laughing. Why do they laught Because they do not pay any taxes. Some of them are delinquent for 1888 and 1889." "Name them," came from several parts

"One of them." said Mr. Martindale, "is a gentleman who is running for councilmanat-large. Some of them don't even pay poll tax.'

Mr. Martin Murphy appeared to take some of this as personal, and roared out. "That's an infernal lie." Mr. Martindale continued: "Fifty cents is enough to run this city and give every-thing it should have. A higher rate doesn't make any difference to men who pay no taxes. You want to look at your charter and see the number of things you can specially tax and what you can get out of it. The vehicle tax is one of these that can be got. The committee has not taken the trouble to figure out what revenue may be

Martin Murphy rose, with blood in his eye, and was moving over toward Mr. Mar-tindale when Col. Bill Hicklin in haste announced the ordinance as passed and declared that Council was adjourned. Mr. Marphy came over to Mr. Martindale and a crowd gathered round. 'Don't you know that's a lie," said Mr. Murphy, who was perceptibly less valorous than when he started with the intention of pulverizing Mr. Martindale. "If you prove it to be so," said the latter, "I will retract; but you are delinquent, or were very recently." "I'm not delinquent now." said Mr. Murphy, almost with meekness. "I paid six months

WORK OF THE COURTS.

SUPREME COURT OPINIONS. 14999. First National Bank et al. vs. Richard Sorris et al. Posey C. C. Affirmed. McBride, J .- Where it is shown that the erection of a building, if permitted, will be in express violation of a valid municipal ordinance, although it would not be a nusance per se, an individual who shows such fact, and shows in addition that its erection will make special and irreparable injury to him and to his property, is entitled to relief by injunction. 2. While parties plaintiff are owners of separate and distinct tenements, yet having a common in-terest, they may be properly joined as plaintiffs. 3. Cities may exercise a reason-sonable control over the making of repairs to buildings, and may prevent alterasances. This they can do even in the absence of statutory authority in the exercise of the police power. And when fire limits are established they may, doubtless, prevent the repair of a wooden building within such limit when to repair would practically be to rebuild whether such repair would create a nuisance or not. They cannot, however, at least wit hout express statutory authority enforce a general sweeping prohibition of all repairs. An ordinance prohibiting repairs within defined limits is invalid. 15292. Board, etc., vs. Willard W. Simons et al. Allen C. A. M. E. Conference.

The annual conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Church will begin this morning at Bethel Church, on Vermont street, and will continue a week. The number of ministers expected is about sixty, including Bishop John M. Brown, of Washington, D. C.; Rev. W. D. Derrick, D. D., New York city; Rev. J. M. Tow Beend, D. D., of Washington, D. C.; Rev. C. S. Smith, D. D., Nashville; Rev. L. H. Carpen, D. D., Philadelphia, Delegates will be elected to the General Conference. There are two vacancies in the bishops' offices, and the presence of so many noted men in the church is explained on the ground that they are seeking to win votes when the election occurs.

Threatened Reduction at the Moore Desk Factory-Disagreement at Louder's.

The cabinet-workers at the Moore desk factory are in a state of rebellion on account of a threatened reduction of 10 per cent. in their wages. Their average wages are $9 per week. The reduction, if put into effect, will affect sixty-five men. The cabinet-workers at Louder's were notified of a reduction of 15 per cent. in the making of desks, but the men have refused to work on that style of furniture. They were not discharged, however, but were put upon other work. The men say upon other work. The men say their union cannot act until the men are discharged. The cabinetmakers of Chicago are on a strike for three points, to abolish piece-work, an eighthour day and for a minimum rate of wages. Word was received yesterday that twenty-seven factories had yielded and signed the scale, and not more than five hundred men were still idle. It is said that a furnitureworkers' strike is not nnexpected here, and when it comes it will be a big one.

Quite a large number of the residents of the North End met last evening at the residence of Mr. James E. McCullough, on North Meridian street, to complete the organization of a club. Rules and regulations prepared were adopted and officers were chosen. Mr. John McFee is president, Mrs. Rinehart secretary and Mr. William T. Noble treasurer. The name of the organization will the Neighborly Club, on account of its being composed of neighbors and for Mr. James Whitcomb Riley's new book, "The Neighborly Poems." The evenings will be devoted to literary pursuits, with an occasional evening for whist. Programmes will be arranged and printed. The subject last night was "The Life of Irving." "Knickerbocker Papers" and the "Sketch Book," and the discussion was so interesting that it was decided to continue it for the next meeting, which will again be held at Mr. McCullough's. The club life opens most auspiciously, and the members are delighted at the prospect of the even-ings to come. It is the first club in that portion of the city, but starts out vigor-ously, and will, of course, succeed, as clubs always do in Indianapolis.
